

“Born from bones,” sang Solomos. His idea was true. The Greek Revolution was born from the very marrow of all living Greeks — and that is why it succeeded [...].

Every time our nation turns towards the people and seeks to be enlightened by them, it continues the tradition that entered triumphantly into the national consciousness with the Greek Revolution.

That struggle was a social, military, and political event. Yet at the same time, it was also a spiritual one.

— G. Seferis, A Greek, Makriyannis
